"That's Dr. King's New Discovery for fifty years a cold-breaker"

NOTHING but sustained quality and unfailing effectiveness can arouse such enthusiasm. Nothing but sure relief from stubborn colds and onrushing new ones, grippes, throat-tearing coughs, and croup could have made Dr. King's New Discovery the nationally popular and standard remedy it is today.

Fifty years old and always reliable. Good for the whole family. A bottle in the medicine cabinet means a short-lived cold or cough. 80c. and $1.20. All druggists. Give it a trial.

Regular Bowels Is Health

Bowels that move spasmodically—free one day and stubborn the next—should be healthfully regulated by Dr. King's New Life Pills. In this way you keep the impurities of waste matter from circulating through the system by cleansing the bowels thoroughly and promoting the proper flow of bile.

keeper have left, and she is compelled to do her own work in her modern home and model kitchen, has a snap compared with the average farm wife. She can light the gas or turn on the electricity to warm it up. She can eat it in a dining room made comfortable by furnace heat. She can—well, she simply has little to do in comparison to the farm wife.

The University of Missouri College of Agriculture, through the Home Economics Workers of the Extension Service, surveyed 645 farm homes in several counties this fall. The homes were not chosen because of unusual conditions prevailing in them. They were selected at typical homes. On these farms, which averaged four miles from town, the usual lines of work were followed. Of the total number of farms visited, 407 were occupied by their owners. The homes averaged five rooms.

Of the 645 homes, only 27 were lighted with gas and 28 by electricity; the rest depended on kerosene lamps. More than 500 were heated by stoves. How would that suit the city housekeeper? Of these homes, 461 had no indoor water supply. In 385 of them the women had to carry the water, which means that in 76 homes, perhaps, father or the children carried the bucket. Only 62 had running water in the house, although 135 had sinks with drain. More facts for the city woman to think about. And here are some figures disgraceful even to the farm: Only 397 farm homes were provided with out-of-door closets, 5 with chemical closets, 14 with indoor closets and septic tank, and the rest of them, 229, had none at all. A bathtub served with running hot and cold water was found in 37 homes. Twenty-one homes were not screened.

These are some of the most important items. Other figures follow. Number of homes having linoleum on the kitchen floor 374, kitchen cabinet 335, bread mixer 34, fireless cooker 35, canner 78, wheel tray 17, dumb waiter to cellar 13, kerosene stove 381, screened-in kitchen porch 253, gasoline iron 27, electric iron 13, carpet sweeper 167, hand vacuum cleaner 100, power cleaner 5, sewing machine 419.

Perhaps the city housewife could worry along without these conveniences. But how would she like to start her day's work at four in the morning? On the farms visited, 85 women started the day at that hour in summer and 56 in the winter; 289 began at five in summer and 91 in winter; 148 began at six in summer and 270 in winter; and 20 began at seven in the summer and 138 at that hour in winter. In the summer the day's work on the farm ended at seven p. m. for 73 women, at eight for 258, at nine for 207, and at ten for 61. The others are still working. The day ends a little earlier in winter; 274 quit at seven, 150 quit at eight, 91 quit at nine, and 14 quit at ten p. m. The farm wife gets an average of one hour a day recreation, although it is not evident from the survey just when the hour comes. About 130 of the farm wives had no free time during the day for rest or recreation. Maybe this explains why women's clubs flourish in the city and are almost unknown outside of the corporate limits.

In spite of all these disconcerting figures, the farm wife is a happy woman. More than half, or 356 of the farms had automobiles, which afforded them means to get away from home once in a while to help their neighbors who were busy.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL GRAIN SHOW

The Seventeenth Annual State Corn and Grain Show will be held Farmers

Week at the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Jan. 20-23. It is strictly educational and all interested in good seed will profit by attending. Nine trophies, six gold watches and five gold medals will be awarded as sweepstakes and championship premiums. These, in addition to the 232 other prizes, make a show in which there is reward for all who will make a serious effort. The professional class which was added last year removes from competition in the amateur classes all men who have won a championship or sweepstakes ribbon in one of the last five shows.

Remember the show includes not only corn, but also wheat, oats, soybeans, cowpeas, clover and grass seeds. It is a general seed show and there are fine premiums for quality in all the important field seeds grown in Missouri. Exhibits must be received in Columbia by W. C. Etheridge, Secretary, on or before January 11, 1920. Copies of the premium list with the rules governing exhibitors in all classes may be had by addressing Mr. Etheridge.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

National Stock Yards, Ill., Dec. 9.

Today's Receipts

Cattle	6,000
Calves	1,000
Hogs	19,000
Sheep	3,000

CATTLE.—Compared with last week's closing prices the general cattle situation is in much the same condition as noted then on canners, trashy stuff and butcher cattle, this department of the market reflecting a loss of fully 50c to 75c per cwt., compared with a week ago today, on the fatter end of the cattle, with canners, trashy stuff not over 25c lower. Killing steers and stockers and feeders up until today indicated a trade basis 50c to 75c lower than the corresponding time last week, but a 25c advance in the market places the trade back to a point within 25c to 50c lower than the time in question. There was a period about two weeks ago when cattle sold to decidedly better advantage but it will be well to call the reader's attention to the fact that the demand and outlet has been satisfactory right along and there is but one reason why this demand has not absorbed the receipts at the prices in effect at that time and that has been due to the over-supply. The situation resolves itself into this: there is a good demand for cattle and fair receipts can be handled to advantage at present, may be higher values, but over-supplies will undoubtedly reflect itself in a declining market whenever the opportunity is presented.

HOGS.—The influx of receipts has been beyond actual necessities, but in face of this situation the market shows a uniformly healthy condition of its outlet, which is capable of taking care of reasonable receipts as it has been manifest clearly that upon any decreased run the market has invariably worked to a higher basis, yet, while absorbing liberal receipts readily, buyers have taken advantage of the country's disposition to force the market by forcing sharp declines. This is well illustrated when we take various phases of the past market. Take, for instance, the trade a month ago, when $15.00 was the top for the best hogs. A week ago yesterday it was $14.75; yesterday it was $13.75; today it is $13, and this latter price represents the lowest level which likewise was in effect a few weeks ago, that the market has noted since 1917. The real factor contributing to the downward trend of the market has been the supply. Last week 110,000 hogs were available and from present indications the current week offers the possibility of the volume being equaled and probably exceeded. The difference between the markets as previously indicated, as shown, indicates the stride that the country has made in liquidating their holdings and it is likewise a perfect illustration of the future if persistency in unloading is followed. It looks reasonable to believe, too, that during the next 60 days supply will be more than adequate for market needs and the reader may as well initiate himself into the belief that unevenness in market conditions is bound to follow under the circumstances, regardless of the underlying strength and vigor there is to the demand. At this moment, as it has been the case for a month or more, buyers are taking southern hogs, depending upon their quality, fat and weight, in the same degree as they have northern swine, and this condition of the trade will undoubtedly continue until soft hogs make their appearance and just the moment that packers run into the oily hogs then a sharp discrimination against southern swine can be expected.

SHEEP.—The supply in this department continues heavier than characteristic of the season of the year, while at times this has effected the market to the extent that some weakness was shown, yet it was only temporary, and the market in a general way has been very satisfying, averaging fully 50c to 75c higher than a week ago and around $1.20 per cwt. higher than the corresponding period a month ago. Taking everything into consideration, it has been a remarkably good trade.

The Price of Pork Chops and Bacon

Here are reasons why the fine, fresh pork tenderloins and pork chops, or savory ham, or crinkly bacon, which you enjoy for breakfast, cost much more per pound than the market quotation on live hogs which you read in the newspaper:

An average hog weighs 220 pounds.

Of this, only 70 per cent (154 pounds) is meat and lard.

So, when we pay 15¢ a pound for live hogs, we are really paying more than 21¢ a pound for the meat which we will get from these animals, even after taking into account the value of the by-products.

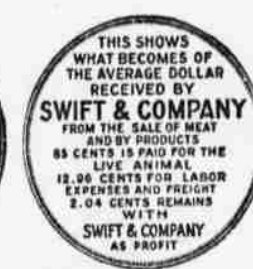

But people show a preference for only one-third of the whole—the pork chops, fancy bacon, and choice cuts from juicy hams.

This means that when we are selling Premium bacon at 43½¢ per pound wholesale and Premium hams at 30¢, there are other parts for which we get as low as 6¢ or 8¢ per pound. The net result is an average profit to us of less than 1¢ a pound.

The choice cuts are higher because of a demand for them.

Another thing: Only 35 pounds of the entire hog—or about 1/6th—is usually marketed at once. The rest must be pickled, cured, or smoked. This takes months, and adds to the costs which must be met.

MONDAY CLUB SPONSORS TAG DAY

The Monday Club, at its regular business meeting this week, voted to take charge of the Charity Tag Day collection on Saturday, December 13, when the women and girls of the town will solicit donations for the Farmington Provident Association. The demands on the Association are already heavy, and the winter is still before us. The Monday Club also voted to give its annual Thanksgiving offering to the Farmington Provident Association.

tion, instead of to private charity, as has been its custom heretofore.

The programs of the club this year have all been interesting, but the one this week has been especially so. The subject was American Folk-lore and Dialect Literature, and the papers on these topics were illustrated by American and Indian songs, given by Mrs. R. P. Lang and Mrs. Orear.

The club also endorsed the Nolan-Kenyon bill, which provides for a National Employment Bureau, which shall collect no fees from its patrons.
